

Remember

Too late....??

Von Vampir_Alucard

Remember

Remember when the world was green and the air still fresh and clean this was all long time ago why not now? 'think we do know.

Smoke of companies as such car exhausts and dense black dust oil at sea, synthetics and bio-waste without end.

This, too, is the cause of it I ask you, is it not so that our nature once so fit is a rubbish dump by now?

We can see how time goes by see those changes and ask why If we look back at those years we could all burst into tears.

Countrysides once beautiful are now gone, replaced by streets fields of flowers, colourful can't no more fulfill their deeds.

Where small houses once had stood a huge skyscraper has its seat steals the view, drives off the wood not a pleasant sight indeed.

Heaps of woods that once stood proud on a solid healthy ground gone are they, felled without shame who is for all this to blame?

The big bosses, they're the ones who have made a mess of it they were craving not just once for more power just like that.

Governments have shut their eyes wanted only fame and wealth never did they realise what they do to our earth.

2 world wars in our past missiles and the nuclear bombs radiation, poisoned gas gestroyed cities and our homes.

Our world once save and sound has become a testing ground those high up don't care at all money, that's for what they fall.

And what will in future be?
Will we, like that, carry on?
If we do then, believe me we're gone too, it won't take long.

We just need to look away until everything is wrecked and then, you will see, one day all will end, and that's a fact.
