

reality

Von GacktJR

I am lookin at the stars but the clouds are keeping them away from me I can't see... the light that shone
seems to disappare from my vision gone in a flash

just like a big illusion and I am in darkness again alone...

"You're a lone wolf"
someone once told me
maybe he was right
I should keep it like that going my own way

not believing in something something like happiness happiness and comfort of relationships that might be happing for others for others but not for me was nice having dreamt this dream but dreams are just there when we are sleeping so why did I believe in one while awake?