blind senses

"What part of leaving me alone hadn't you understand?!" shouted Noah at a person, which belongs very much to him.

"But, Noah.." his boyfriend tried to say.

"No, Luke! Go away!"

"No! I won't go!" said the blond young man stubbornly, "I'm not leaving you if you want or not. Noah.."

Luke came closer to the other man, stopped the try getting pushed away. He grabbed Noah's arm and forced him staying nearer. Although the brown haired couldn't see, he shirked from Luke's look. They were standing in their apartment, in which they lived together for such a short time.

".. I love you. Why don't you let me help you?"

"You can't." Noah hissed quietly.

"You don't even give me a chance to try! You are right, I don't know what you are going through but when I was confined to the wheelchair, I pushed you away too, because I didn't want you to see me in that situation. I was so angry."

"That's not the same."

"I know, I know but I had an injury and now you have an injury. You cannot say that this isn't the same. Both of us wanted to pushed the other one away, you didn't go away and so neither do I."

At the next moment Noah felt a warm hand at his cheek. For a second he wanted to escape but at the same time he felt how much he missed this sweet sensation.

"I miss you." Noah only whispered.

"But I'm right in front of you. I'm here."

The brown haired thought he was able to feel the distance between Luke's and his lips, which got smaller and smaller and he put an arm around his boyfriend. Before their lips could touch Luke stopped.

"Wait.", the warm breath touched Noah's face.

"What's wrong?" reminded this words them of their first kiss.

"One second!" Luke ended the hug and was apparently searching for something.

"Luke, what's going on?" Noah asked confused but he didn't get an answer only heard the blond man looking for something.

"Hey, I'm back." the sweet voice whispered directly in front of the brown haired man.

"What were you doing?" Noah welcomed Luke back.

But Luke didn't answered with words, he took the hand of his blind boyfriend, "Do you even love me?"

"Yes I do." Noah said, "What's that?" he asked as his fingers skimmed over a piece of fabric in Luke's face.

"Now I can't see too. I blindfolded me."

The brown haired man skimmed over the fabric again, felt the closed eyes under it, which he wanted to see so badly. After a sweet smile flashed on his lips he bridged over the distance between them and kissed Luke. Their lips touched for a short time again and again, till Luke couldn't wait any longer and entered his tongue between Noah's hot, sweet lips, initiated a passionate kiss. They grabbed each other sucked into the kiss both missed that much. Even Noah wanted Luke staying away from him he missed the tenderly touches. Their tongues began to fight, which increased the passion of their sensations. Impatient Luke and Noah began to stroke over the others lovely body. The blond man began to unbutton slowly Noah's shirt. His fingers seemed to feel more intensive than usual. He felt every muscle under the shirt of his boyfriend and after he had finished the last button the cloth fell from Noah's broadly shoulders. He couldn't see with his eyes, so he had to see with his hands. After the shirt from the brown haired man felt to the ground, he pulled Luke's T-shirt over his chest, touched the sensitive nipples.

A little gasp came out of the blond mans throat and at the next moment, but not without interrupting their fervently kiss, Noah took Luke's T-shirt off and threw it in a corner of the room.

"Do you want to.." the young Snyder asked.

"Yes." Noah didn't need his sight to find the way to their bed, he also had to guided his boyfriend, who wasn't used to the never ending darkness.
