

Kagehina Week

Von Nitschieh

Kapitel 1: Colour

Tobio Kageyama was sitting in his chair, drawing a picture, when someone called out to him:

"To-chan, what are you doing?"

Before he even had a chance to react, Tobio suddenly had a mess of orange locks sticking in front of his face. He quickly tried to cover the page he had been drawing on but the intruder was faster.

The piece of paper was snatched off the table and colouring pencils were sent off rolling across the surface. Then the ball of orange hair started laughing.

"Bahaha, why is your sun orange? Everyone knows it's yellow!"

Tobio quickly turned away as to not look into the other's eyes. He hoped his reddening ears weren't too obvious when he mumbled his response.

The interrupter only and laughed again leaned in closer.

"To-chan, I can't hear you!"

Tobio now shut his eyes tight and felt his face get warmer. Then he opened them again, locking them with his opponent's and took the paper back, before shouting:

"Because Shouyou-kun is my sun!"

While Tobio ran off Shouyou Hinata, the boy with the orange hair, watched him disappear into the room next door with wide eyes. Just one second later he heard something fall to the ground and when he saw the orange-coloured pencil he could only smile.