Kapitel 4: Eijiro Kirishima: +2 Years

The new year started pretty well. The agency was doing fine and they had a lot of work. More and more big missions came in and they were thankful for that. They caught more drug lords before they could also be killed by Trigger X. But unfortunately, none of them would or could tell them, who was selling the stuff.

The weeks passed and things got really serious for him and Hitomi, he loved her so damn much and he couldn't take his eyes off of her. He had sometimes serious problems concentrating at work. Mina scolded him multiple times that he should focus on the job during work times. He growled a little because it was so hard.

After their first time, their sexual activity increased, so much that Mina and Tetsutetsu sometimes did overtime at work to escape them. They joked about it a lot.

Mina and Tetsutetsu sat in the office, after returning back to work because it was fucking Valentine's Day and god forbid that Hitomi and Eijiro gave them a break.

"Damn, I wish I would get a boyfriend!" Mina complained.

"Why's that?" Tetsutetsu asked.

"Because, if I had a boyfriend I could be loud too, I could show them, how annoying that is sometimes!" She grimaced.

Tetsutetsu laughed. "True, I mean you could always 'rent' a boyfriend or something" he suggested.

"Nah, I don't want to do that" she sighed.

Tetsutetsu mustered her. "Can I ask you something?"

She looked over to him, she sat on her office desk, feet on the desk. "Yeah, sure."

"Did you have feelings for Eijiro during school? I mean, you had this cuddle club thing, right?" He asked.

Mina pursed her lips. "Hm, I can't deny, that I didn't have a crush on him ... but it was a schoolgirl crush because he was cool and all ... I mean, he is still cool, but I don't have feelings for him anymore." She answered, thinking she stared at the ceiling. "I mean, my feelings were the whole reason I got so fucking pissed at Katsuki."

"Oh, what do you mean?" Tetsutetsu raised his eyebrows.

"When Eijiro broke up with Katsuki and he went to Izuku and all that stuff, Eijiro suffered so much and I was so fucking pissed because Katsuki could have had the guy I liked and he completely broke his heart instead and I just didn't want to see Eijiro suffer, that's why I blew up so much. I knew that he wouldn't date me, and believe me, I tried but he never saw me as a potential partner" she exhaled deeply. "So I gave up on my feelings."

"Yeah, that was a huge mess. But yeah, I guess that was a wise decision." Tetsutetsu mumbled.

"And you? Do you have feelings for someone? Maybe Kendo?" Mina questioned.

Tetsutetsu chuckled. "Nah, Itsuka is just a good friend. She has no interest in me and I don't have interest in her. And no, I'm not interested in someone particular at the moment" he answered honestly.

"Do you want to go on patrol? I could need something to eat" Mina asked.

"Yeah, sounds good" with that they stood up and walked outside to grab something to eat.

In full hero costume, they walked through the dark snowy streets, towards their favorite noodle shop. Mina had a cool new jacket to her costume, designed by Hitomi of course.

They arrived at the noodle shop and ordered. While they waited they looked outside. "The snow is really pretty, right?" Mina mumbled.

"Yeah, it's peaceful, I wish it were always so peaceful" He murmured, there was something in his gaze that Mina couldn't name.

The order was ready and they ate quickly. It was usually the case that, every time they tried to eat something, from somewhere a villain attacked, so they never took too much time to eat.

After dinner, they walked again through the streets. There were only a few people out there mostly pairs. "What do you think, do we have to make an all-nighter or are they done by the time we go back?" Tetsutetsu asked absentmindedly.

"I sure hope they are done soon. I want to sleep in my bed tonight, not on the office couch" she grimaced.

"Hah, yeah, true, besides, one office couch is not big enough for two people ..."
Tetsutetsu murmured.

"You can sleep on the ground!" She laughed. "You're not getting the couch."

"Ouch, how cold you are" he grabbed his chest in a jokingly pained motion.

They both broke out into laughter and slowly they made their way back to their office.

They were lucky this night. Hitomi and Eijiro were finished when they came back home. Mina and Tetsutetsu were tired, but they still couldn't sleep. They sat in the living room and watched television, Mina was wrapped in a blanket, they laughed and talked about the movies. They eventually fell asleep on the couch.

Eijiro was staring in the mirror he had some huge bite marks all over the chest, not mating marks just love bites. He had a stupidly bright smile on his face. God, he felt so good! He was happy that he didn't have to wear a shirt while wearing his hero costume, He wanted to show the whole world that he was claimed by someone!

He came into the living room and saw Tetsutetsu and Mina snuggling on the couch, he was a bit confused but shrugged it off, they both were adults, they could do whatever they want.

He went to work alone, the other two had probably worked all night so they deserved their sleep.

He walked from his office over to the Fat Gum agency, snacks in hand. He entered the office and some of the employees greeted him happily, he walked into Taishiro's room after knocking.

Tamaki and Taishiro were in it, Taishiro was in his skinny form at the moment, or well, he was in the process of gaining weight again, since he had to use his energy on a strong opponent recently. He looked pretty happy.

The omega on the other hand looked shy as usual. "Hey, Tamaki, hey Fat!" Eijiro greeted.

"Oh, hey Eijiro!" Taishiro waved at him, he had a bright smile on his face.

"H-hello" Tamaki mumbled, he looked to the ground.

"Is everything okay, Tamaki?" Eijiro asked while he put down the snacks at Taishiro's desk.

"U-uh y-yeah, e-everything is f-fine ..." he mumbled.

"More than fine I would mean" Fat Gum laughed.

"What do you mean?" Eijiro looked confused to Tamaki. He was blushing heavily and fidgeted with his fingers.

"Why don't you tell him?" Fat Gum encouraged him.

"A-ah, y-yeah. E-Eijiro I-I will l-leave the a-agency s-soon" he murmured.

Eijiro raised his eyebrows. "Oh, why's that?" he tilted his head.

"B-Because I ..." he stopped, Eijiro could see the nervousness.

"Please go on" he encouraged him.

Tamaki sighed and looked up. "I'm pregnant" he whispered.

Eijiro gasped. "What? Really?! With Mirio?" he asked.

"Y-Yes, really. And yes, w-with Mirio" Tamaki answered.

Enthusiastic Eijiro jumped up and he hugged Tamaki. The poor omega was too overwhelmed to react. "That's so great, Tamaki, congratulations!"

Tamaki blushed. "Thank you" he mumbled. Eijiro let go and Tamaki sat back down.

"Yeah, right? You will be a great parent. And you should know that you can always come back!" Taishiro said.

"Thank you very much," the omega said again. They talked for a while about it, Tamaki got more and more comfortable during that talk. They would soon announce Tamaki's break, Lemillion had an interview scheduled for the upcoming month.

After that Eijiro made his way back to his agency. In the meantime, Tetsutetsu and Mina woke up and were now ready for work. Of course, Eijiro told them the good news, and Mina and Tetsutetsu were excited to hear that.

More months were passing in which he spent quality time with Hitomi, got many, many jobs done and his popularity skyrocketed. The media was gossiping about his love bites, they tried to find out who his partner was. Eijiro never confirmed or denied anything they fabricated.

Tetsutetsu and he were hired one time to protect a celebrity. The famous idol Kaoru Murata. He was at the moment, the most popular and most successful idol in Japan. The job was kinda draining because Kaoru didn't like to be supervised. He would constantly try to escape. Besides, he was a damn handful and even Eijiro had trouble with him. He was damn charming for sure, but it was just so exhausting to listen to all of his wishes et cetera. He made Monoma look like a normal, sane individual.

And his manager was a handful too. She had an attitude and internally it pissed Eijiro really off. She was perfectly friendly on the outside and when talking to other high-ranking people, but she had a mocking tone to people 'below' her. Eijiro just hoped the job was over soon.

Mina got a little bit jealous, she was actually a fan of Kaoru and she wanted to see him too. But she had her own job during that time.

The months passed and finally, the hero billboard charts at the end of the year were coming up. Lemillion was here with Tamaki, the omega had given birth at the end of October and he was still on maternity leave. Poor Tamaki was bombarded with questions and he seemed to almost faint.

Eijiro was very surprised how many of his former classmates were already within the Top twenty. This time it looked as followed.

Number 1 was still Endeavor, even though his head start was melting rapidly. Number 2 was Best Jeanist, Number 3 Lemillion, Number 4 was Hawks, and Number 5 Mirko. Followed on Number 6 by Blue Rabbit – Sougo. She was very happy that her former student had almost caught up to her.

In place, number 7 was Edgeshot, followed by 8 by Kamui Woods. Number 9 was Ryukyu and on 10 came Electro Master – Denki's boss, Shaira.

Tenya was already on Number 11, a fact that made Eijiro happy but pissed off Katsuki slightly. 'Why is glasses almost in the top ten?' he had asked.

Tsuyu came on 12, a fact that made her very, very happy. Froppy was absolutely adored by the public, the same was for Uravity on 13 and Cellophane on 14. Their popularity stemmed mostly from their splendid teamwork.

On 15 was Red Riot, followed by Real Steel on 16. Dynamight was on 17 and Pinky was on spot number 18. Mount Lady was on the 19. And surprisingly, Chargebolt made the Number 20 spot. Denki was so baffled.

Katsuki wasn't unhappy with his place, even though he wished he was higher. Eijiro was absolutely happy, he had thought it would take longer to get in the top 20 so this was absolutely enough for him.

He noticed Katsuki's and Toya's annoyed looks when Hawks and Endeavor approached. Hawks was basically glued to Endeavor who seemed kinda annoyed himself. He tried to get Hawks away from him multiple times, to no avail.

Eijiro, Hitomi next to him, Mina, and Tetsutetsu walked over to the members of the Moruga agency. Eijiro congratulated Sougo to sixth place. The public absolutely loved him, and he got a boost because he was quirkless and proved that even people without a quirk could become heroes.

His teammates on the other hand didn't make it into the top 20. Satsuki was in place 23, Kuroko on 31, and Michiko was on 45. Her actions from the past were still dragging her down, but she just shrugged it off. She didn't do it for the fame anyway, she wanted to save people, so it didn't matter if she was popular or not.

It got late and Hitomi and Eijiro planned on leaving but to his surprise he heard loud screams from the rooftops. He went up there to see what was wrong. He found a drunk Katsuki and a semi-drunk Toya screaming as if the devil was behind them.

It was the very first time that Eijiro saw Katsuki drunk, he usually stayed away from alcohol, the same was for Toya.

"What's wrong with you two?" He asked. They both giggled like little school girls. "You're pretty drunk, you shouldn't be up here!" He tried to get them away from the edge of the roof.

"Ah, y'know, Eijiro, it's this fucking Hawks!" Toya walked over to him, Katsuki hooked under, he placed an arm around the alpha. "He constantly hits on Endeavor and it's so fucking annoying! I don't like that" he grimaced.

"Yeah, I would be pissed off too" Eijiro sighed. "And what's your excuse?" He looked to Katsuki.

The blonde tackle hugged Eijiro suddenly. "I'm still in love with you, but y're with Hitomi. That's fine an' all, y'know I like her, she's great and all. But I'm still so jealous!" he slurred and rubbed his cheek against Eijiro.

The redhead sighed. "Aye, just how drunk are you?"

"Jus' a lil' bit" Katsuki answered, still giggling.

Eijiro exhaled deeply again and he threw Katsuki over his shoulder and he supported Toya. Under protest, he brought them down. "Oiiii, I can walk alone!" Katsuki whined while kicking his legs.

"Yeah, no, I rather bring you down, not that you are falling off the roof." He said.

Downstairs he caught Shoto and he gave Toya to his brother. Eijiro briefly explained what had happened. Shoto sighed too, he could understand his brother perfectly. Every time he saw how Hawks hit on his father he wanted to throw up. But he promised he would take care of Toya. Momo next to him reassured Eijiro too.

Since Katsuki was living alone and the members of the Moruga agency were still in the middle of partying, Eijiro took it upon himself to bring Katsuki home. He informed Hitomi, and together they brought Katsuki back, he was still over Eijiro's shoulder.

They arrived at Katsuki's apartment and they entered it, Hitomi waited in the kitchen while Eijiro brought Katsuki to bed.

"You should really sleep. You think I can leave you alone?" Eijiro asked while undressing Katsuki.

"Nooo! Don't leave me alone!" Katsuki whined. He was still not clearer in mind. He rubbed again against Eijiro.

The redhead sighed and carefully pushed him back. "You're drunk, Katsuki, you know that I have a girlfriend," he said.

"I know! Don't have to tell me! Hitomi is perfect, I still love you!" Katsuki tried to put his arms around Eijiro's neck.

"Stop that, Katsuki" Eijiro growled. He pushed Katsuki back onto the bed.

"Why? I want you to love me!" Katsuki tried again to stand up.

Eijiro sat down next to Katsuki on the bed and he looked the other alpha in the eyes. "It is better we don't talk about that now, you are completely wasted. We will talk about it when you're sober, and only during one of our counseling sessions." To make sure Katsuki got it, he put a little bit of Alpha pressure behind it. He knew that Katsuki was immune to alpha commands by now, but he could still feel it.

Katsuki laid back in his nest – Eijiro could make out some Red Riot Merchandise – he still looked at Eijiro. "Sleep now!" The redhead threw a blanket over the other alpha and left the room after Katsuki had passed out.

"Wow, he's really drunk" Hitomi mumbled. She had seen the pure desperation in Katsuki's confused and drunken mind.

"Yeah ..." was all that Eijiro commented. They went home for the night and went to bed immediately. Eijiro's mind was racing. Katsuki was still in love with him after all this time ... The thing was, Eijiro wasn't in love with him anymore. He had finally freed himself completely from those feelings. He wished Katsuki would find someone similar.

"Oh, I am sure he will one day" Hitomi tried to reassure him. They went to sleep after that.

The next morning came rather early when suddenly someone knocked on the door repeatedly. Grumbling, Eijiro got up and opened it. To his surprise, a completely hysteric Katsuki was in front of it. He immediately started.

“Oh my god, Eijiro, I am so fucking sorry! I-I don’t know what went through my mind last night. I fucked up again, right? I don’t remember everything but I think I confessed my love to you, right? I’m so sorry! I didn’t mean to do that. Please, don’t be mad at me, I swear I didn’t mean it!” He rambled.

Eijiro wasn’t fully there yet, he was still kinda sleep deprived and he needed a few seconds to make sense of Katsuki’s rambling. While he processed the first sentences, Katsuki continued to apologize. “Oi, stop it!” Eijiro murmured eventually before Katsuki got a panic attack because he wasn’t saying anything.

“Everything is cool. I know you were drunk. I told you we would talk about it, during one of our counseling sessions, not now at,” he looked at the clock, “six am? Seriously? Why are you awake anyway?”

“I don’t know, I just woke up and I had to come and apologize” Katsuki answered.

Eijiro exhaled deeply. “Yeah, it’s a bit too early for that, I had a long night ...”

Katsuki perked up. “Oh, yeah, right, right, I’m sorry, I will go” he was about to leave when Eijiro sighed.

“How about you stay on the couch? I don’t feel comfortable with you running around in the dark, still not completely sober. Take a nap and later we make an appointment with the counselor. Sound good?”

“Uhh, I ... okay” he followed Eijiro into the apartment and sat down on the couch.

“I’ll give you a blanket, one moment” Eijiro disappeared into his bedroom before returning with a blanket. “Now sleep.”

Katsuki nodded and laid down. He pulled the blanket over himself and drifted off to sleep.

Eijiro returned to Hitomi, she chuckled. “He’s really a handful.”

“True” Eijiro took Hitomi in his arms and drowned himself in her scent.

After a very awkward breakfast a couple of hours later, in which Katsuki apologized a dozen times to Hitomi too, they were now sitting with their counselor. They listened to Eijiro's explanation of what happened. Katsuki apologized more and he swore to never drink so much alcohol again.

"Hey, it's okay I know that you just said that because you were drunk. No big deal, no harm done" Eijiro tried to convince his friend, he turned in his seat to face Katsuki directly. "But, you need to do something about those feelings. It's not good for you!" Eijiro looked him in the eyes.

"You miss out on so many good things. I mean, I don't say you absolutely need a partner, but at least something that can take your feelings for me away. You will feel better, when you are free of those emotions, believe me!"

Katsuki gulped. "I know! I'm trying, but it's hard ..." he looked down. "Make me forget you, please, tell me there is never ever a chance again, anything!"

Eijiro looked over to the counselor, they had their notebook open, they nodded slightly. He exhaled. "Katsuki, there will never, ever be a chance, that you and I are getting back together. I don't love you anymore. I love Hitomi, not you. I got finally rid of my feelings, and you should do too. It will only hurt you, and I don't want that."

Katsuki stared at him, he gritted his teeth. He had known it, Eijiro was in love with Hitomi ... he knew that there was no chance whatsoever. But to hear it was hard. He took some deep breaths and his alpha finally took control over his raging omega.

This clear statement helped him, of course, his feelings weren't gone just like that, but he finally had the confirmation, that it was over. His omega could give it up now, and his alpha would make sure it did. He exhaled shakily. "Thank you ..."

"Are you okay?" Eijiro raised his eyebrows.

"Not at the moment, but I think I will be. I got my omega under control now" he nodded, he put a smile on his face. It was a fake but Eijiro hoped that he finally got it. He wished it for Katsuki's sake.

They talked a bit more after that and in the end, Eijiro had a somewhat okay feeling about the situation. Katsuki seemed to be calm and collected, more than before anyway.

Christmas and New Year they spent with Hitomi's family this time. He was thankful for the peace it brought him.
