

Not as planned - Izuku Midoriya

A/B/O Verse

Von Puraido

Kapitel 2:

Izuku woke up three hours later, he felt still a little groggy. He yawned and scratched his neck. Right, he was still in Thailand. He stretched and got up. He changed into fresh clothes and opened his door, he hoped he would find the room later again.

He walked the way back that they came earlier and he found his way to the entrance area. He wondered what he should do now. He looked around and decided to explore a bit on his own.

The mansion was a fucking labyrinth however. He managed to find himself in a library, more bathrooms, the kitchen, suddenly he was outside on a balcony. He found a luxurious living room and the broom closet, even that looked really fancy.

"Is there something you need, sir?" he heard a voice as he closed the door to the broom closet. He flinched heavily and turned around. Another maid was behind him. Her name tag read 'Isabelle'.

"Uh, no, I am new here, I just ... uh, don't know where I am, I might be lost." He said embarrassed.

"Oh, right, you are one of the Japanese visitors, right, sir?" she asked. She had reddish brown hair and green eyes, she was also an omega.

"That's right ... Could you please help me find back? I want to talk to Kairi" he asked.

"Right away, the missus is currently in her office. I will have to look if she is available at the moment. Please, follow me, sir." Isabelle turned around and walked away.

Izuku followed her, still highly overwhelmed with everything. "This is such a big house, I think I need a map, or something" he murmured.

"I can provide a map for you, sir" Isabelle, answered.

"Really? The mansion has its own map?" Izuku blinked.

"Yes, sir."

"Uh, could you just call me Midoriya, please? I don't like the 'sir'" he felt dumb asking that.

"As you wish, Midoriya" she answered. She turned towards him and smiled. "Should I tell the others to call you Midoriya as well?"

"That would be wonderful!" Izuku sighed in relief.

"Very well." With that they seemingly arrived at Kairi's office. "Please wait here a moment." She knocked at the door and entered after Kairi called her in.

She was gone for a few minutes. When she returned she smiled at him and opened the door for him. "The missus has time for you now" she let him in and closed the door after him.

Kairi sat in a big executive chair behind a massive desk. She had multiple monitors on it and some paperwork. In front of the desk were two couches, an armchair and in the middle a coffee table. On the left side, when you entered the room were filing cabinets and on the other side were more computer stuff and a big white wall.

"Hey, sit down on the couch, I am almost done here" she murmured.

Izuku nodded and sat down, He waited for Kairi to finish, what ever she was doing. "Hey, PAM, could you send Rachat my prices? I am interest in the job he has to offer."

A computer voice echoed through the room. "Right away, ma'am."

"Thank you, PAM." With that Kairi stood up and walked over to Izuku. She was still in her 'uniform' she had a white shirt on with black pants and her black military boots, her coat was somewhere to the side. She plopped down on the couch opposite of Izuku.

"Well, shoot, what do you want?" She asked.

"Uhm, I wanted to ask how we should proceed now, with the bond scrubbing and all."

"Ah, right. PAM could you book two appointments at Stella's for bond scrubbing please? As soon as possible."

"Of course, ma'am, one moment please." PAM answered.

"Who is Pam?" Izuku asked.

"PAM – short for Predictive Analytic Machine – is an AI. Me and a friend of mine constructed her a few years ago" she explained.

"Ohh, so she's not a real person?"

"No, she is an artificial intelligence. Do you know the Avengers?"

"The movie series?" He furrowed his brows.

"Jep, PAM is something like J.A.R.V.I.S., a super computer, yada-yada" she explained.

"Oooh, okay, okay, I understand. That's cool!" he smiled.

"Yes, it is. Here is a headpiece. Just put it in your ear and you are connected with PAM outside of my house. You can ask her anything."

She threw a button towards him. Izuku caught it and put it in his ear. "Thank you." He murmured.

"The next available date is the first of September." PAM mentioned.

"Hm, that's in one and a half weeks. I hope that's okay for you?" Kairi looked at Izuku.

"Oh yeah, absolutely! If that's the earliest date, then that's fine." Izuku lifted his hands, Kairi shouldn't worry about it.

"Perfect, book them please, PAM" Kairi smiled.

"Yes, ma'am." There was a pling sound and then PAM said. "It is booked, ma'am."

"Thank you, PAM." With that Kairi turned to Izuku. "So, is there anything else you need?"

"Uh, well, I really hate to ask ..." He fidgeted with fingers.

She rolled her eyes. "Speak your mind kid. Is it about money? You already know that you can use it as you please."

"But I feel bad if I just take your money. You're already paying for the bond scrubbing and all" he was so embarrassed about this fact.

"Pft, Boy, I don't think you will lose me like two million dollar in a day, right?" She tilted her head.

"U-uh no!"

"See, now, if you would spend that amount, I would get angry, but if you spend a few hundred dollars here and there I won't even notice. Besides, if you want to stay here longer, then you can always take a job, like everyone else, you can earn your own money."

"But is that legal? I mean, I am barely a visitor here, can I really take jobs here?"

Kairi scoffed. "You're joking right? I mean, do you think the jobs I take are legal? Technically no, you can't have jobs here, but who says you have to tell anyone? Just do the job, get the cash" she shrugged.

"But ... that would be moonlighting!" Izuku looked panicked. "What if someone from police stops to check on me?"

"Bullshit, none of those lazy ass bastards would stop you. As long as you are a bit subtle about your work and don't wear a sign with 'I do illegal stuff' in front of them, they don't give two fucks about you." She explained.

"Besides, some of the members of my family work for the police. Jay and Sam are Detectives and Kilian – Miles' son – is an Officer. Collin, my nephew, is a Cadet at the moment. So, you see, many people are with the police, you don't need to worry about that."

"Still, I'd feel kinda bad ..." Izuku furrowed his brows.

"Okay, then. PAM could you hack in the registration office and register Izuku Midoriya as a citizen of Batoh? Without traces please."

"Right away, ma'am."

"Oh, and then you have to inform Jackson that I need all the documents for him, so he can take legal work."

"Of course, ma'am."

"B-but that's illegal too!" Izuku lifted his hands up.

Kairi sighed. "Look, boy, this city is FULL OFF gangsters and other criminals. It's ruled by the mafia. Literally no one gives a shit about things like that. You have to get rid of your thinking that everything you do is strictly monitored and if you do something bad everyone is after you. It's just not the case here. This is not Japan. The only thing you need to keep in mind is, never ever do shady business on the main road! That's the only thing the police cares about. The main road is for the tourists that bring money into the city, we want to get their money, so we don't do our business on the main road. Easy-peasy."

Izuku didn't look convinced, but he nodded. "I need time to adjust to that ..." he murmured.

"You will get to that." She gave him an encouraging smile. "Do me a favor and don't go into the city alone, at least not in the beginning. Stick to Ian, Jesper or really any of the others. If you don't know the rules of this city, it can cause major problems."

They heard a knock on the door. "Come in" Kairi called.

The door swung open and a girl with dark brown hair and blue eyes walked in, she had Kairi's face, so Izuku guessed it was one of her daughters. She had Toya – with Hotaru – and Keigo with her.

"Dearest mother" she started as she walked to the couch. "I brought you these two absolute cuties" she smiled, while she plopped next to her mother onto the couch. "Oh, I see, there's yet another cutie" she smiled at Izuku, before she turned her attention to her mother again.

"What did you do this time, Elsa?" Kairi raised her eyebrows.

"Why would you assume that I did something, dear mother?" she asked.

"I'm your mother, I know when something's up ..." Kairi gave her a look.

Elsa's grin got even wider. She leaned her arm onto her mother's shoulder. "You might want to help me a little bit."

"Spit it out, Elsa" Kairi sounded not amused.

"You see, I met up with one of my sugar daddies, and he got quite nasty this time."

"I fail to see why this is my problem?" Kairi raised her eyebrows. Izuku blushed at her mention.

"He got my venom and he wants to sell it, this really upsets me! I normally would take care of him on my own, but I just got a manicure" she inspected her nails. "Dearest mother, you wouldn't leave your youngest child hanging with such a problem?" Elsa made big puppy eyes and looked at her, she whined a little.

Kairi let out an exasperated sigh and she shook her head. "How many times did I tell you, to take better care? Give me the name, I'll deal with him." She growled.

"It's Ernesto De León. He is currently in the Walareiy Hotel." She answered with a smile. "I don't care what you do with him, just make him pay for hurting me like that, will you do that for me, dear mother?" She tilted her head.

"I should charge you for that, really." She growled. "But yeah, yeah, I'll deal with him. Least you can do is to call Sawyer that I'm coming with a package later." She scoffed. "Not even twelve hours back and you got this kinda job for me. Why don't you ask your brothers for once? Or your dad?"

"Ian's sleeping, Jesper's with Mina and Kilian is at work, dad ... I don't know, out with the boys? So, you're my only hope!"

"Yeah, yeah, alright, don't crawl up my ass further, I already said I'd do it. Would you excuse me now? I got some business to do here" she gestured to Hawks, Toya and Izuku.

"Right, right. You're honestly so lucky, mother. You can have your time with these cuties" she sighed.

"Oh boy ... Just go, Elsa" She pushed her daughter away from her. Giggling, the younger alpha stood up and walked passed Hawks. She gave him a suggestive smile and ran her fingers through his feathers, before she left.

Kairi pinched the bridge of her nose after Elsa had left the room, she pointed to the couches. "Take a seat ..."

"I have a question. What are you going to do with this guy?" Izuku asked.

"What do you think?" She gave him a look. Then she pulled two more devices for PAM out of her pocket. She gave them to Toya and Hawks. "Here take these, this will enable you to talk with my AI outside of the house. PAM is very capable, but you better be nice to her!" Kairi told them what PAM exactly was.

"So, when's the bond scrubbing?" Toya asked.

"September first is the earliest date. Stella is very booked." Kairi told him.

"So, uh, do we need to be careful around your daughter?" Keigo asked.

"Elsa? Hm, yeah, you need to be careful, she can get quite annoying with her advances. Ask Sam, but since you're omega she won't really have an interest in you. Like me she prefers alphas. She might flirt with you, but generally, if you say no then she respects that. Except you are named Sam ... poor guy, really."

"Ah, okay, good to know" Keigo murmured.

"Can I get some baby stuff somewhere?" Toya questioned.

"Of course, just ring for the maids, they will provide you with everything. We also have a daycare on the ground floor. She's not the only infant here. I can introduce you all the other occupants of the house if you like."

"I guess this would be good. Makes things less awkward" Toya mumbled.

Kairi got up. "Then follow me, boys." With that she left the room and the three followed her.