A soul, deep and silent like the sea
Unkown and hide in the dark
Searching for a way through the night
The wood was too misty to see a light

All I need is time
Just a glimme of hope
Waiting in my cocoon
For the breaking day

Reborn in the lingt of the rising sun
I spreak out my colorful wings
Flying up into the sky
To discover the big wide world

Beautiful like a rainbow,
But fragile are my wings
A butterfly can't life without them
And they may be break easily
